What's Growing?

Strawberries are ripe! Pop into the garden and enjoy some fresh red strawberries. Most of the blackberries are in PEAK bloom and raspberries are beginning to form.

Updates / Notes from Jacob

- I picked up about 100 plants donated by the OSU Master Gardeners after their plant sale on Saturday. There are many cucumbers, peppers, lavender, kale, Swiss chard, and sunflowers you can pick from to plant in your plot.
- This week is going to be less hot! If you planted any squash, cucumbers, beans, corn, or tomatoes they might not grow much until it warms up again (low temps above 55 degrees).
- I will be removing the weekly task sheet as it has not been used much! If you are unsure of what areas need work, please reach out. I will post a list of ongoing tasks that can always be completed instead.

Reminders

- Please keep all areas tidy and put away tools/empty out wheelbarrows when you finish using them.
- Tools and other garden materials should not leave the garden space.
- There is absolutely no smoking of any kind in the garden.

Comments?/Clarifications?

Reach out to Jacob if you have any suggestions for this weekly update or for anything else you need!
